

QUESTION ETHICS, LINDSEY REFUSED "SQUEAL ON BOY"

NOTED JUVENILE JUDGE IS SENTENCED TO YEAR IN JAIL, CONTEMPT OF COURT

JUDGE LINDSEY GIVES HIS SIDE OF THE CASE TO UNITED PRESS ASSOCIATION

By JUDGE BEN B. LINDSEY

Editors note:
Judge Ben B. Lindsey, the most noted juvenile judge in the world is under sentence of a year in jail for contempt of court because he refused to pay the alternative $500 fine or let his friends pay it for him. Following is his own presentation of the case:

Denver, Colorado, Feb. 2—"I would far rather go to jail and rot in a cell than to betray the confidence of a child.

"The law in the case in which I have been adjudged in contempt of court and sentenced to pay a fine of five hundred dollars or spend a year in jail, gives but two alternatives.

"To betray such a confidence or pay the penalty.

"I made my choice and will go to jail, and if a similar situation should ever arise again I would not hesitate to make the same choice.

"In the midst of our juvenile court here came a mysterious murder. A woman was said to have killed her husband. A small child surprised authorities by declaring that he, and not his mother, committed the crime.

"The authorities said the boy was a liar. They brought him to me as an expert in truth and falsehood. I got the truth out of that boy by lifting the spell of fear—promising to not betray his confidence. But a well meaning prosecuting attorney, in his zeal to probe the mother, called me in as a witness to impeach the testimony of the boy which had acquitted the mother.

"I refused to betray the boy's confidence. I could only claim the privilege I had contended for: that this confidence should be respected by the court in the interest of truth and justice.

"The lower court disagreed with me. I was found guilty of contempt and appealed to the supreme court of Colorado. Four out of seven judges held that technically I should have betrayed the child. Three in dissenting held as I contended.

"The supreme court of the United States I understand has held upon the same technicality that it could not review the decision. And, so I have failed in an effort to have a decision by an unbiased and unprejudiced court upon the merits of this great principle. I can say this much now—Only two people in the world know who killed that man—the boy and myself. The mother accused of the murder does not know. Make out of this what you will.

Here's New Wrinkle In Alimony Game

(By United Press)

St. Paul, Feb. 2—Husband and wife are seeking alimony from each other in a divorce and cross bill filed today.

Joseph George, 36, declared he always turned his pay check over to his wife and she now has $2,800 in banks. He asks divorce and alimony. In the cross bill she charges cruelty and asks fifty dollars a month alimony.

REGULATIONS ON LIQUOR DEALING

(United Press)

Washington, Feb. 2—All permits to deal in liquor wholesale quantities except those held by manufacturers and druggists must be withdrawn under a formal ruling issued today by Attorney General Palmer at the request of Secretary of the Treasury Houston.

MR. AND MRS. J. C. BIDDLE

After living the life of a trappist monk in a monastery at Gethsemane, Ky., for 20 years, James Cornell Biddle, member of a prominent Philadelphia family, was married to Miss Mary Lena Gaines of Warrenton, Va., at St. Matthews rectory, Washington. Mr. Biddle is fifty-two years old, while his bride is forty-eight. Through his family connections in England, Mr. Biddle had the right to the lands and title of Lord Wyville, but he preferred to remain in this country.

IMPROVEMENT IN ELECTION MACHINERY

(By United Press)

St. Paul, Feb. 2—Election frauds and expensive registration of voters in Minnesota cities of more than fifty thousand population would be eliminated if plans of the senate to introduce a bill in the state senate today are successful.

The measure, introduced by Senators C. E. Adams, Erickson and Ribbeck does away with registration of voters under the present system and makes city clerks responsible for registration of voters. A card index system would be inaugurated and the election judges would follow the card index and nothing else.

The Minnesota legislature does not want to make Canadian lumber dutiable.

A resolution passed by the state senate today asked congress not to pass the law placing duty on lumber imported from Canada. It previously passed the house.

Under suspension of rules the senate passed a bill introduced by Senator Coleman authorizing the secretary of state to advertise for bids for 700,000 automobile licenses.

Senator Hall today introduced a measure providing for the erection of a $300,000 "victory hall" at the state fair grounds for gold star mothers.

Aliens who served in the world war would be entitled to benefits under the soldiers bonus act if a bill introduced by Senator Devold is passed. It would also make widows, mothers and fathers of deceased men eligible to collect bonus payments.

Governor Preus today raised the ban on trapping muskrats in Minnesota. He said complaints had reached him that rats were too numerous in the southern part of the state. Former Governor Burnquist proclaimed a closed season a short time before he left office.

1,000,000 HUNGARIAN CHILDREN THANK U. S.

Paris, Feb. 1—Gratitude for American relief to the children of Hungary is expressed in a message to the United States to which signatures of 1,000,000 children have been obtained, says a Budapest dispatch today. Fetes are being planned for schools of Hungary in celebration of American inauguration day, March 4.

HOUSE PARES DOWN RIVERS AND HARBORS

(By United Press)

Washington, Feb. 2—The house yesterday voted 205 to 120 against increasing appropriations for rivers and harbors work during the next fiscal year to $28,000,000.

At the present the rivers and harbors appropriation bill carries a lump sum appropriation of $15,250,000 for the maintenance and continuance of projects already started.

FULL PAY ENVELOPE HAS EMPTIED THE CRADLES OF NATION

SO PRONOUNCED BY BISHOP SAMUEL FALLOWS OF EPISCOPAL CHURCH

"NEGLECT OF HOME LIFE IS THE LEADING FAULT OF THE AGE," SAID HE

(United Press)

Chicago, Feb. 2—Full pay envelopes of women in industry has emptied the cradles of the nation," Bishop Samuel Fallows of the Reformed Episcopal church said today.

"Women used to do housework and pave the way to become wives," he said. "Now they have become co-partners of men in politics and business and have no thoughts of marriage."

He said neglect of home life by women is the leading fault of the age and has become a serious problem.

Even when women marry today they insist they be allowed to retain their place in industry.

"The full pay envelope is the greatest temptation to the sacred day of motherhood," he said.

Bandits Hold Up Whist Players, Get $50, Ring

Sloux City, Iowa, Feb. 1—Three masked bandits early today entered a home in the fashionable residence district, held up four members of a whist party and escaped with $50 in cash, a ring and watch after they had ransacked the house. Diamond rings worn by two of the players and valued at $3,500 were slipped off by the wearers and thrown to the floor without the knowledge of the bandits.

APPROPRIATIONS FOR NAVAL DREADNAUGHTS

(United Press)

Washington, Feb. 2—Appropriations of $90,000,000 to continue the building of naval dreadnaughts and other armament during the next fiscal year were recommended in the naval appropriations bill reported to the house today. The total carried by the bill is $395,504,000.

Compared with appropriations for the current year it is a decrease of $37,000,000 and is $284,000,000 less than was requested by navy officials.

NAVY RADIO SERVICE OPEN TO NEWSPAPERS

Washington, Feb. 2—The secretary of the navy is authorized to give newspapers and press associations use of the navy department radio service without interruption to June 5, 1922, under a resolution favorably reported to the house today by the house merchant marine committee.

The newspapers and press associations are required to pay for the service the same rates which are charged by privately owned and operated stations for the same kind of service.

"It is not the intention of the committee to open the question of government operation or control of radio service," comments the report of the committee on its resolution. "The purpose is merely to assure to the news publishers of the country a continuous, undisturbed service."

WHOLE TOWNSHIP UP AS WITNESSES

(By United Press)

St. Paul, Feb. 1—Most of the population of Rockford, Wright county, moved to St. Paul today to testify in the divorce action brought by Wm. Kaer, thirty-one, against his wife Bertha Anna Augusta Kaer, twenty-eight.

Wm. Kaer brought suit charging cruelty and inhuman treatment and neglect of their one daughter, Florence, age 10, and indiscretion.

Kaer said his wife left him August 9 last year and went to her mother's home. One night he went to see his wife and found her in the room of George Rossback, a boarder, Kaer said. He accused Rossback of breaking up his home and they fought. He asks a decree and custody of the child.

BERGER AND OTHER SOCIALIST LEADERS WIN POINT IN CASE

AS RESULT OF SUPREME COURT ACTION, LANDIS DECISION MAY NOT STAND

POSSIBLE THAT IT MAY BE REVISED AND NEW TRIAL BY ANOTHER JUDGE

(By United Press)

Washington, Feb. 1—Victor L. Berger of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and other socialist leaders, in the supreme court yesterday won one of the main points upon which they relied for reversal of conviction and sentence to twenty years' imprisonment for violation of the espionage act.

As the result of the court's action, it was possible that the decision of Judge Landis may be revised and a new trial ordered before another judge. The decision however, does not finally settle the case of Berger and the others.

The court held that Judge Landis federal district court judge of Chicago where the socialists were first tried, was disqualified as trial judge when the socialists filed an affidavit of prejudice against him because of statements he is alleged to have made in pronouncing sentence upon a man convicted of the espionage act shortly before the Berger trial.

The decision of the court was six to three. Justices Day, Pitney and McReynolds dissented.

CIVILIZATION MAY DESTROY ITSELF

(By United Press)

Washington, Feb. 2—"Unless progress can be made toward ending world wars we have reached the point where civilization may destroy itself," General John J. Pershing told the house naval affairs committee today.

Pershing added however, "Until this agreement is reached among all the great powers the United States will continue her naval and armament program."

Pershing favors efforts to bring about a meeting of the great powers to discuss disarmament, and said he had high hopes such efforts would be successful. "If President-elect Harding calls a disarmament conference all the powers will respond," he said.

"Rose of No Man's Land," Weds Today

(By United Press)

St. Paul, Feb. 2—Known to Siberian overseas veterans as their "rose of no man's land," Miss Mildred Mitiska became the flower of one man's home today.

Leonard T. Blomholm, clerk in the state auditor's office was the groom. Mrs. Blomholm was in Red Cross service in France, Russia and the Balkans. She speaks seven languages, learned in service.

GERMANY DOESN'T TAKE KINDLY TO INDEMNITY ASKED

UNITED PRESS CORRESPONDENT SAYS TEUTONS LAUGHED IN DERISION

MAY GIVE THE ALLIES A FLAT REFUSAL WHEN IT COMES TO PAYING

JOHN DeGANDT

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Paris, Feb. 2—Germany today was laughing in the faces of the allies, laughing in derision at the demand for an indemnity of $55,000,000,000. The allies were faced with the possibility of a flat refusal to pay the huge sum.

In that event seizure of German ports and possible collection of customs was contemplated.

This it was admitted might lead to armed clashes. Dispatches from Berlin reaching here which were earnestly scanned at the foreign office said that derisive laughter swept over the Reichstag when Von Simons addressed that body making known the allies demand. Von Simons made it pretty clear that Germany will reply that she cannot pay any such sum.

The next move on the part of Germany probably will be the reorganization of the cabinet to demonstrate to the allies that both parties are united in their attitude against paying this big indemnity, according to information in official circles here.

The Germans expect moral support of America in this stand and are much interested in the reported intention of Senator France to introduce a resolution limiting the indemnity to what they regard a "reasonable figure."

$70,000,000 ADDED TO ROCKEFELLER FUND

New York, Feb. 2—The general education board of the Rockefeller Foundation has increased its resources by $70,000,000 through gifts of John D. Rockefeller in the last year, the annual report of the board said.

The report said that up to July 1, 1920, the board had appropriated $19,335,707 toward a total of $59,769,941 to be raised by institutions to meet increased salaries for teachers. A total of $13,661,747 was contributed in the last year to medical schools.

SECRETARY AND BONDS DISAPPEAR FROM DULUTH

(By United Press)

Minneapolis, Feb. 2—Treasury notes and bonds amounting to over $150,000 have disappeared with B. T. Jager, secretary and assistant to Alex M. Robertson, president of the Duluth Street Railway company and vice president of the Minneapolis Street Railway company, according to Pinkerton detectives today.

They said Jager had been traced to Chicago. A warrant was issued charging Jager with theft of securities from a safety deposit box in Minneapolis.

Missing securities are said to consist of $50,000 worth of treasury certificates, $25,000 worth of Canadian Northern bonds and $52,000 worth of British government bonds.

INDIANA PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION

(By United Press)

Indianapolis, Feb. 2—Foes of the Indiana public service commission won an initial legislative battle against that body today when the house of representatives voted 52 to 46 to accept a minority report of a judiciary committee recommending passage of a bill providing for its abolishment and reestablishment of the railroad commission in Indiana.

PILOT SHIP RAMS SUBMARINE L-1

(United Press)

Washington, Feb. 2—The submarine L-1 was rammed today by the pilot ship Philadelphia of the Overall Light ship, Secretary of the Navy Daniels was advised by the naval commandant at Philadelphia. The accident took place at 7:50 a. m. The entire crew of the submarine are safe, the dispatch said, but heavy damage was done the vessel.

EDWARD BERKOFF

A complete upset of the theory that learning must be acquired, is seen in the remarkable case of twelve-year-old Edward Berkoff of Brooklyn, N. Y. About eighteen months ago Edward fell while at play. There followed a severe attack of "sleeping sickness" from which Edward emerged a mathematical marvel. Before the fall he was backward in his studies, and mathematics, according to his teachers, was probably his hardest subject. His skill in handling figures now is amazing.

TWO OPINIONS— TAKE YOUR CHOICE

J. F. BEAMAN

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 2—Idle thousands of Ohio cities seem determined to strike against going to work on farms, N. E. Shaw of the department of agriculture said here today.

A food shortage and high prices may result throughout the entire nation if the same strike of the unemployed is undertaken in other states, Shaw warned. Farmers offering to hire men for wages below those paid last year are receiving little or no response, according to Shaw, despite the fact that 450,000 men are unemployed in Ohio, as shown in a recent survey by the United States employment service.

Washington, Feb. 2—Farm labor will be plentiful throughout the entire United States throughout 1921, G. W. Forster of the bureau of farm management of the agricultural department predicted here today.

Forester and other officials were perplexed by reports from Ohio that the unemployed were remaining idle rather than work on farms for wages below those of 1920.

Assistant Treasurer Skinner of the United States employment service, today said here is a distinct drift of workers back to the farms.

EMERGENCY TARIFF, DOOMED LEGISLATION

L. C. MARTIN

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, Feb. 2—The attempt to halt the senate committee on the Fordney emergency tariff bill through cloture rule failed today. The cloture failed to secure the two-thirds vote necessary for its adoption. The vote was thirty-six aye, and thirty-five no.

The vote was an overwhelming victory for Senator Pat Harrison and his allied filibusters.

Failure of the cloture means the democrats can kill the tariff bill by talking it to death between now and the end of the present session if they wish.

They may however, agree to vote later and let President Wilson veto the bill if it passes.

The vote today indicated there will not be sufficient senate votes for it to pass over the president's veto. In either case, today's events were regarded as the doom of the measure. Following the cloture vote a new attempt to secure a vote on the bill itself at a later date was started.

Workmen's Compensation Insurance Measures

St. Paul, Feb. 2—A joint meeting of the house and senate committees on workmen's compensation measures was held Tuesday afternoon in the senate chamber. Both committees reported on various bills which have been under consideration and a legislative program was being worked out.

WOMAN WRITER LEAVES HUSBAND AND 3 CHILDREN

FORTUNE MADE IN WRITING "SONOROUS" LITERATURE RAPIDLY DWINDLES

HUSBAND GOES BANKRUPT AND AGAIN FIRES BOILERS—WIFE HAS DISAPPEARED

(By United Press)

St. Paul, Feb. 2—A fortune made in writing sonorous literature has melted in five short months and Arthur S. Foster is back at his post stoking boilers. His wife, whose mysterious writings baffled him, has disappeared leaving him with three small children to care for.

"I never knew how much or how little she had," Foster told the United Press.

"But in five short months of delirious spending she bought two fine motor cars and two homes and luxuries galore. All are gone."

Foster does not care if she never returns, he said today. She left him bankrupt and firing boilers. She left a bill for $1,053 worth of clothes he never knew she bought.

"I never knew whether she actually wrote sonorously, but I know she had large sums of money last May and June. It dwindled rapidly, until last October and I was forced to return to the coal pile. On November 27 she said she was going to the butcher shop, and never returned. Two days later I received a letter from her postmarked St. Paul in which she said she was going away and I would not see her for a long time."

A week later Foster went through bankruptcy. Two days after he was declared bankrupt he received a letter from his sister, Mrs. J. D. Neal, R. F. D. No. 2, Huntington, Penn., saying Mrs. Foster had visited her and had left for Chicago. She has not been heard from since, her husband said.

Oil stock investments wrecked the fortune of Eva H. Foster, and sent her husband back to shovel coal.

The thousands she made writing, sonorous, all disappeared shortly after she met a man known as "J. C. Cox" who claimed to be an oil stock salesman from New York, according to her husband, Arthur S. Foster.

"After that we had all kinds of trouble," Foster told the United Press. "She said she bought $30,000 worth of oil stock and paid cash for it. I never saw this fellow Cox, and she didn't tell me much about it, but we were broke. Then my wife left. That was last November and I have not heard from her since. She had met this salesman through a girl friend, Miss Mary Cox, who claimed to be his sister."

COMMITTEE ASKS FOR WILSON STATEMENTS

(By United Press)

Washington, Feb. 2—The house appropriations committee today reported the resolution of Representative Gould of New York calling upon President Wilson for a complete detailed statement of expenditures of the two national commission funds of $100,000,000 and $50,000,000, allowed him during the war.

Previous statements of the president, the committee said, were incomplete.

ATTENTION MEMBERS OF MUSICAL CLUB

The names of the nominees to Musical club offices thus far presented for election one week from Saturday are now posted in Dunn's drug store. Any two members agreeing on a candidate may add to this list by and with the consent of the candidate. Technically speaking, the consent of the candidate is not necessary, but practically speaking, it is essential.

These may be supplemented by nominations from the floor but, in order to expedite the election, which will be held after the program, it is desirable to have the names of all nominees posted in order that the members may come to the meeting with their ballots mentally prepared.

They are also requested to come prepared to take a ticket to sell to husband or other friend, as the club's second artist recital occurs the next week, Feb. 20th. The artist for this recital is Isador Berger, a noted violinist.

For the benefit of those who find it inconvenient to visit Dunn's drug store during the next ten days, the list of nominees, to date, will be published with the program for Feb. 12. The hostesses for this meeting, Mesdames J. Carlson, A. J. Hayes, W. C. Mannis and T. H. Schaefer, have secured, as reader, Geo. Lamb, of St. Paul. Those who have heard Mr. Lamb say that he is very talented, being particularly good in portraying humorous sketches.

IRONTON

Ironton, Feb. 1.—The Crosby-Ironton High School Girls Glee Club will give a very fine program at the Ironton School Auditorium on Wednesday evening, February 2, at 8 o'clock.

Because of a conflict of dates the Father's and Son's banquet has been postponed to Friday, February 25. The date as previously arranged was in conflict with the date of the Glee Club's program.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. John Orr, aged one year, was badly scalded last week when the plug flew out of the washing machine as the baby was creeping past. He was considerably scalded but the burns received prompt attention and he is recovering from the mishap.

A local contest in declamation will be held on February 11. This contest is open to the public and it is expected that the people will show their interest in what the schools are doing to teach young people how to speak effectively. The Crosby-Ironton high school is now a member of the Minnesota High School Declamation League.

Several prizes will be given at the masquerade ball to be given Tuesday, February 8, at the Croatian hall. Music will be furnished by the Elias orchestra.

After visiting friends and relatives in Chicago, Kansas City and Dallas, Mike Voornas is again at home after an absence of about three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Bork are the proud parents of a daughter born Wednesday, January 26.

One more citizen of distant Greece has entered the U. S. with the expectation of making his home here. Kosta Roucoff, brother of Mrs. Sam Milanovski arrived recently.

R. J. Mayheu, H. L. Bratvold, T. W. Beare and D. B. McAlpine returned last week after attending the meeting of the Minnesota League of Municipalities.

Miss Ruth Smith received her nurse's diploma at Ashbury hospital, Minneapolis last week. Her mother, Mrs. I. W. Smith went to the Twin Cities to be present at the exercises and was to be accompanied home by her daughter and a number of classmates who expect to spend a few days here.

Prayer Service

A preparatory prayer service will be held this Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the People's Congregational church, for communion service next Sunday morning. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Foreign Missionary Society

The Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church will hold its February meeting at the church parlors on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Svea Sick Benefit Assn.

Svea Sick eBenefit Association will meet in the Clara Lutheran church at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening.

Eskimos Regard Life Lightly.
The Eskimos, who have not yet come under Christian influence, are said to be filthy and treacherous. They practice polygamy and infanticide, and they kill off the aged and infirm when they are unable to hunt. But the Christian Eskimos are clean and self-respecting, and 75 per cent of them can read and write in their own language.

MISS GLADYS NITTERAUER

Louisville, Ky. Herald Comments on Piano Playing of Promising Young Artist

The following critique of the piano solos of Miss Gladys Nitterauer taken from the Louisville, Kentucky, Herald is written by E. A. Jonas, a well known critic who commands respect where his work is known.

Miss Nitterauer who is a Brainerd girl has been in Louisville for about four years and, as the review shows, has taken a prominent place in the musical circles of that city.

Miss Nitterauer was for about five years a pupil of Mrs. W. A. M. Johnstone and Mrs. Johnstone is to be congratulated on the showing her late pupil is making in the musical ranks of the south as evidenced by his critique:

Wednesday Musical Club Program Most Enjoyable

Once again the Wednesday Morning Musical Club places us under an obligation. It brought us acquainted with the Flonzaley Quartet. It promises Gulomar Novas, most brilliant of Brazilians, in addition to Werrenrath. Let there be no tears for Miss Pette; we will tell her with respect that she is not indispensable to the season's success.

But most of all we wish to return thanks for that delicious and well-balanced program, just long enough to give zest to the day, with which we were regaled Wednesday morning. The soloists were Misses Gladys Nitterauer and Martha Young—may we take the pianist, as being a newcomer, first? Miss Nitterauer is the happy possessor of a fine tone, astonishing virility of reading and a nice sense of balance. Her octaves ring out with a most unusual precision, her pedaling in the Cyril Scott offering more especially, has dynamic qualities and withal the young lady presents, not only all the technical equipment but a marked sense of the message of the music—again it was Cyril Scott, with his richness of coloring, who was shown to best advantage. The Bach C Minor Fantasia went with distinction and clarity, nicely accented besides; Schumann's Novelette, in which the retards were perhaps a trifle stressed, was deliciously thrown off. Of the Scott number, a Vesperale, I have spoken. Decidedly an artist whose future appearances it will be well to watch.

Miss Young, who was in delicious voice, and it's a voice velvety and subtle, presented a group of French songs (Fauré-Massenet) in that style Madame Butterfly was caused to be accepted as authentically of Nippon. Enunciation, phrasing, characterization were admirable, perhaps, however, the French are not so invariably nasal; later the dramatic possibilities of her gift no less than a certain most welcome archness—My Little House—reminded us that in Miss Young, Louisville rejoices in an artist of the first rank.

The final number was altogether out of the ordinary, nothing less than the first movement from Bach's C Major Concerto for three pianos—Mrs. J. B. Speed, Miss Sarah McConathy, Miss Etta Rosenfelder—and a string quartet; Mrs. Richard G. Knott, Messrs. Letzler, Rudolph and Karl Schmidt. A performance to take away with one and glow over. There are other movements, it is pleasant to recall.

Workers to Share Management.

The Pennsylvania railroad's plan for averting breaks between the engine and train service employees and the company through the operation of joint commissions was perfected by the organization of the joint reviewing committee of the Pennsylvania railway system which has final jurisdiction.

This is said to be the first instance of an American railway giving its employees equal power with the management in deciding questions affecting working conditions and welfare.

The reviewing committee is composed of nine representatives of the employees and eight company representatives, but one of the employee's representatives drops out when a vote is taken.

British Labor Unsatisfied.

The British government's suggestion, giving an insurance benefit of 15 shillings ($3.75) a week to the unemployed and placing government establishments on short time, with a reduction of the weekly wage, are declared by the Labor party to be totally inadequate, and the party refuses to co-operate with the government on any such basis, demanding that even if short time is adopted there shall be no reduction in wages.

A wireless message to Paris from Moscow saying that a great many mechanics from Detroit, Mich., now are working in the Donetz coal basin of Russia, has caused considerable speculation in European diplomatic circles.

"You don't know how much you have cheered me," said the fashionable physician.

"Why, doctor, how can I, a sick man, cheer you?"

"Because you are really sick and need my professional skill to cure you. Most of my patients are rich people with imaginary ailments. I'm glad to get a chance now and then to practice something besides deception."

Fordson

TRADE MARK

The Fordson Tractor was made to meet the demands and necessities of the every-day American farmer. It was made with the thought that it was the necessity of the man of forty acres as well as the man with one thousand acres. It was made not only for plowing, harrowing, discing, drilling, seeding, mowing, reaping, but for all other work on the farm where power is necessary. It was made to bring conveniences to the farmer's home as well as for the cultivation of his fields. It was made to furnish power for the cream separator, silo filling, cutting feed, sawing wood, furnishing power for milking, washing, supplying the house with running water, electric lights, and the hundred and one things on the farm. It was made to do all this economically and in a reliable way. It was made to be the big profitable servant on the farm.

And it has not failed in any of the expectations had for it. It has been tested as no other Tractor has been tested. It has been proven reliable and can furnish proofs impossible in any other Tractor. It has done these things not only in America but in Europe, Asia, Africa and in the Islands of the Seas. It has met successfully the demands of farmers in every part of the civilized world.

Therefore, the Fordson Tractor can meet all the conditions of your farm. When you buy a Fordson, you are not buying any experiment—you are buying a servant and a money-maker for you that you can depend upon absolutely from the first day you put it to work. It is easy to understand. It possesses all the power you want. It is simple in control. It is more flexible than you imagine. It will help you cultivate every foot of ground you have, and every day in the year you will find use for it on the farm. Its appeal to the farmer is in its dependable service and the wide variety of work it can do.

We'd like every farmer that reads this, if he hasn't a Fordson Tractor already, to come to us and let us sell him one. Let us demonstrate its powers, its values, on your own farm. Let's get into details—power, reliability, economy. While the sale of a Tractor gives us a small profit, the purchase of a Tractor to the farmer means a money-making servant every day for years. So the sale of a Fordson means more to the purchaser than it does to us. We are arguing for your good, Mr. Farmer. Come in and talk it over. Your time against ours. It is worth it.

And remember, when you buy a Fordson Tractor, we are right here to keep that Tractor in reliable running condition every day. You won't have to wait if anything should get out of order. We are right here to keep it right, because one of the conditions of the Fordson dealer is that he must keep on hand always a complete supply of parts. This is a guarantee we don't believe you can get with any other farm Tractor. Come in. Let's talk it over.

PLAN TO DISRUPT TRADE UNIONISM

Open Charge Against Railroads
Made by Association of Machinists.

ALLEGED FACTS SET FORTH

Statement Says That Thousands of Workers Can Get Employment Only
by Surrendering Their Union Cards
—Government Treasury "Milked"?

Charges that the big railroad companies have joined a widespread "open shop" movement to disrupt trade unionism, and are this year "milking" the government treasury of $750,000,000 through car-repair manipulation, are made in a petition filed with the Interstate Commerce commission for the International Association of Machinists.

The petition, submitted by W. Jett Lauck, on behalf of William H. Johnston, president of the machinists' organization, asks the commission primarily to prohibit railroad companies from assigning repair work to outside companies, which charge exorbitant rates, without specific permission from the commission, and pleads for an immediate inquiry into charges that the roads are closing their repair shops, throwing thousands of workers out of employment, in order to throw locomotive and repair work to private equipment companies, in which railroad capitalists or banking groups are heavily interested.

More than 30,000 workers, it is set forth, already have been forced into idleness through this plan of the railroads, and can return to the shops only upon surrendering their union cards.

By this scheme, the petition charges, the managements hope to send the unions on the rocks, charging the bill for the accomplishment to the public through taxation to pay subsidies guaranteed by the federal government or by maintaining high rates to shippers and the traveling public.

The petition further sets forth that this drive on railroad shop workers is only one phase of a capitalistic "open-shop" movement, developing throughout the country, which has for "its real object" disruption of "all legitimate labor organizations and trade union agreements."

Evidence of the scope of this movement is compiled in the petition as follows:

Wreck of the Interchurch World movement, because it dared to advocate collective bargaining in the United States Steel corporation.

Revelations before the Lockwood committee in New York, to the effect that the United States and Bethlehem Steel corporation refused to furnish fabricated steel to construction companies in New York city employing members of labor unions.

Recent refusal of anthracite coal companies, controlled by Morgan & Co., to grant complete union recognition to mine workers.

Garrett Hume's Opportunity

By WILL T. AMES

(© 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)
Hume, big and boyish, looked just a little more boyish than usual. Joyce Allerton thought, as he hung open the gate and hurried up the gravel walk. He fairly radiated optimism. The very gesture with which he waved his hat with one hand, while the other busied itself with the gate latch, was significant of a spirit of triumph. His smile was a sunburst.

Joyce could not help thinking that there was that about Hume, sometimes, which suggested a prep school boy lost in the sanguine excitement of the day's football match, rather than a veteran of a hundred ghastly days in "the forest" and a man with his face set to the serious business of making a way and a place for himself—and for a woman. But Hume's infectious smile was reflected in the serious gray eyes of the girl as she greeted him.

"Somebody leave you a million, Garrett?" she called to him before he reached the veranda steps; "or did you win a set of tennis? Something's happened, I know, you're bubbling like a geyser."

"I Don't Need That Kind of Softy Luck."

Hume threw himself down on the top step, tossed his hat down beside him, leaned his back against the wooden column that flanked the steps and clasped both hands around a knee.

"Nobody's left me a nickel—and I don't want anybody to; I don't need that kind of softy luck. And I'm through with tennis—and all the rest of the foolishness, Joy. But something has happened."

"Joyce—the young man's face took on suddenly an expression of great earnestness, an earnestness in which there was just a suggestion of awe—"Joyce, I fancy there's something to that saying about opportunity coming once to every man. Mine is here. It has come."

An observer less influenced by the equation of personal interest than Garrett Hume might have read more than he did in the abrupt flash of concern that came into the gray eyes. All that she said, however, was, "Tell me, Garry."

"You've heard me talk about Neville, our major, Joy—"Mad Hat" they called him—the chap who took our battalion a mile farther than his orders — and pried a Hun division apart by doing it. Well, he's in on a big deal in China, a railroad concession, and he has offered me a rattling good position out there and a tiny little interest in the syndicate—gratis, of course, for he knows I haven't any money. The salary is three times as much as I've ever had, to say nothing about the ultimate profit and the 'getting in' with men of big business affairs."

There was eager expectancy in Hume's manner of looking at the girl as he told his big news. But Joyce had drawn a spray of the honeysuckle to her and her head was bent over it. So he hurried on, getting upon his feet and coming close to her as he spoke.

"Joyce, dear," he said, "this means success—it is success. You know I have only waited for the justification of assured position, of decent income, to ask you to marry me. It has come. You will—won't you, Joyce? And go out to China with me? I have accepted, of course—I'd be crazy not to. But it would spoil it all if you didn't go with me."

Joyce's cheeks were a little pale, but her voice was cool and firm as she replied after an instant's pause: "Garry, sit down here and let me talk to you. Liddle, I care for you more than any one else in the world; but I am not going to promise to marry you. I do not agree with you that this chance of yours is in itself a success. And I cannot marry you unless you succeed. Wait—it will do no good to insist. This is the most vital problem of a woman's life. I must make my own decision, and make it out of my own heart and my own mind. I have made it."

"Joyce, don't say that it is 'no'!"
"No, Garrett, I will not say that. It would be as unfair to me as to you. My decision is this: You must take two years—two full years. While you are out there you may write and I will answer; but there must be no renewal of this subject during that time. Then, Garrett, if you have really and truly succeeded, if you can show me that you are a man in whose hands I can safely entrust my life, and that you are beyond the possibility of failure, it shall be as you wish if you still want me for your wife."

That was in August. In September, two years later, the Asiatic mail brought to Joyce Allerton the most tragic epistle she had ever received in her life. It was dated at Shanghai, on the anniversary of the day when Hume so joyously announced the arrival of his great opportunity. Joyce read:

"This is the last day. In the face of every misfortune, of each bitter disappointment, I have fought down despair and clung desperately to hope—until now. It is the end, of course. Instead of having made the success you so rightfully demanded, instead of having attained to position and fortune and the assured capacity for protection which a girl like you has every logical reason to expect in her husband, I have to confess myself not only a failure, but a failure so complete and disastrous as to present, in contrast to my cocksure bragging on that last day at home with you, a spectacle of sprawling comicality like one of those slapstick clowns that everybody used to buffet in the movies."

"I've told you a good deal in my letters, Joyce—how poor Neville's concession turned out to be only half baked after all and how his luck didn't stick to him as it did in the Argonne and how his fine New York friends stood out from under when the Japs diplomatized his railroad into their own hands and left him flat broke; how he offered to send me home with his last five hundred—and his wife sick unto death at Chicago; how I obtained a 'position' in Hong Kong and how I hoped for something better very soon and all that kind of thing. But I didn't tell you that the Hong Kong position was that of a porter in an English hotel; I didn't tell you that I stuck to that job for a solid year because I couldn't get anything better. I didn't tell you that I lost it by thrashing a cockney who bragged that England would have won the war six months sooner if we had kept out of it—and for the next six months earned my living typewriting English letters for a tea exporting firm of Chinamen—which is considered the unpardonable sin out here for a white man. I didn't tell you that the 'superior employment' which I came here to take was a miserable clerkship for the treaty court. You never would have guessed that it has taken me all this time to earn and save my passage money home—and now that I have it I'm not going, but am going to stay here in the land of my failure and invest those few hundreds in an American soda fountain in a desperate attempt to wring a ridiculous little pigny of success out of my colossal failure."

"God bless you, Joyce, and give you a happy life. You had rare sense."

And this is the expensive cablegram Joyce sent in reply:

"Pecuniary success nothing to me. Have too much money myself. Feared failure in tenacity of purpose. Regard you as true success. Answer is yes. Please come home."

It was a Thanksgiving day wedding and Joyce said to her husband, "I think, dear, that what we have to be most thankful for, after all, is that great opportunity of yours—to prove yourself just a man."

ALL GOOD FOR IRRIGATION

Various Mixtures of Water Make
Lands in the Big Horn Basin
Yield Valuable Crops.

Climb to the headwaters of Ten Sleep creek, or Paint Rock creek, on the west slope of Cloud peak, the highest point in the Big Horn mountains, and one will find small glaciers kept alive by the huge snow accumulations of winter.

Farther up the Big Horn at Thermopolis is a hot mineral spring flowing over a terrace into the river. At the upper end of Black canon there is another hot spring pouring into the Big Horn. Or start with the Shoshone River in the everlasting snowfields of the Absaroka mountains on the eastern edge of Yellowstone park. Just after coming out of the canon above Cody one will notice the De Maris hot springs pouring into the Shoshone.

In other words, they don't take their irrigation water straight in the Big Horn basin. A little hot sulphur water is mixed with the ice and snow water to irrigate the land along the Big Horn river from Thermopolis to Coburn, and along the Shoshone from Cody to Tonia, where it joins the Big Horn. Melted snow and ice is, of course, just plain water. But the water of the hot springs contains lime, sulphur, gypsum and muriate of potash. The potash is generally useful. Sulphur is good for alfalfa, and the gypsum keeps the soil porous and transfers black into white alkali.

"I don't know," confessed Billy. "I never heard any of them before."

AMUSEMENTS

At the Lyceum

Writing of Nazimova in Photoplay Julian Johnson, under the caption "The Shadow Stage," gives an interesting insight into the manner in which Nazimova, the phenomenal Russian screen star, has caught the public imagination. Mr. Johnson's article is based upon communications received from motion picture fans. Regarding Nazimova, he says:

NAZIMOVA
in Madame Peacock

"She is more a part and less a person than any actor or actress of the screen. To the picture community she is as strange, as fascinating and as unworshiped as was Mr. Hergesheimer in Java Head. And what, we say in passing wouldn't she do with that particular part on stage or screen!"

"Notwithstanding her bizarre qualities, I think people like her best when she is most womanly."

Nazimova's next local appearance is in "Madame Peacock", tonight and Thursday at the Lyceum theatre. The picture is based on a story by Rita Weiman.

At the New Park

"Going Some," the new Rex Beach picture at the New Park theatre, beginning today, is a story full of action and up to the usual Rex standards in every respect.

Wagering a big cattle ranch against a sheep ranch upon the outcome of a foot race is one of the excitement producing elements in "Going Some."

Most of the action centres around the two runners and the owners of the ranches. The runners hold the destiny of many people in their power to win or lose the eventual race. Before the time arrives for the athletes to try out their physical prowess, oil is discovered on one of the wargers ranches thereby enhancing its value a great deal. The possibility of such a discovery was not taken into consideration when the wager was made; hence arises the question of whether it would be fair to carry out the original terms on which the bet was based. Obviating the necessity of legal assistance, nature allows things to take their normal course. The solving of this intricate puzzle makes a story of absorbing interest. "Going Some" gives all the thrills and excitement to be derived from a picture.

Little City in Eastern Syria.

Clustering red-tiled roofs, white stuccoed walls, the fresh green of graceful poplars, and minarets rising here and there in slender beauty—this is the picture greeting the visitor approaching through the mountains rimming it about, the once important town of Aintab, which nestles at the foot of Mount Taurus on the eastern coast of Syria, says the Christian Science Monitor.

Aintab was not only beautiful, but prosperous in those days before the Turk invaded the land, swept it bare of its industry, scattered its people to the four corners of the earth, and deported them inland to the desert or outward to the fringe of seacoast.

Today, however, as one approaches more closely to the town, one sees that there are gaps in the rows of white stuccoed houses, that many of those picturesque red-tiled roofs are falling in, that many of the houses are empty and decaying, and that the town which looked so beautiful from afar is really a shell, an echo of that once busy, flourishing Aintab which with its 43,000 inhabitants, formed an important

Very few of the hundreds of spectators who have seen Gambetta's heart carried in procession through Paris know that another portion of his body is above ground. Long before his death one of his eyes was so badly damaged by a blow that it had to be removed, says the continental edition of the London Mail. The doctor who performed the operation caused the eye to be specially treated to preserve it. It was placed in a small glass phial, which the doctor gave to one of his pupils, now practicing as an oculist in Paris. Its owner has expressed the intention of giving the eye either to the Gambetta family or to the state.

2 DEATHS RECORDED IN BRAINERD TODAY

Miss Carrie Morrison. After a Lengthy Illness, Died at Her Home Wednesday Morning

WAS INTERESTED IN CIVIC LIFE

Frank G. Fredstrom, Dairyman and Farmer, Died of Pneumonia on His Farm

Two deaths were recorded in Brainerd of well known people.

Miss Carrie Morrison died at 4:10 o'clock Wednesday morning after a lengthy illness during which she showed true Christian fortitude in bearing her suffering with patience and cheerfulness.

Miss Morrison always took a great interest in civic affairs and devoted much time and attention to assisting many of the home talent plays in properly staging and beautifying scenes. She had a large number of friends in Brainerd, Duluth and Minneapolis and all were shocked when they heard of her passing away.

Even in her last moments she was thinking of Brainerd and her friends and from her lips was received a farewell message to the citizens of the town she loved so much.

This message related to intelligent citizens crossing parks and lawns and by their trespassing destroying the grass, and the lady who, almost at the end of the earthly pilgrimage, yet retained a vital interest in the beauties of the out-of-doors, emphasized the fact that this destruction is not perpetrated by school children but by educated men who have had the advantage of a higher education.

Such a message as this coming from the lips of one who suffered pain as she lay through a long period and watched the trespassers defacing the parks and lawns ought to prompt people to seek to protect the beauties which give pleasure to the eyes of the healthy and yet more pleasure to the eyes of the sick when those eyes have learned to appreciate beauty.

The time of the funeral has not yet been set. Friends are asked to omit flowers.

Frank G. Fredstrom

Frank G. Fredstrom died at 6 p. m. on Tuesday, February 1 at his farm home one and one-half miles from Brainerd on South 6th street.

The deceased was born in Sweden in the year 1862 and came to this United States when a young man. Entering this country, he settled for some years in Nebraska. In 1889 he was married at Oakland, Nebraska to Selma Swanson.

He then moved to Minnesota, coming to the town of Crow Wing 25 years ago. The family has lived for 12 years on the farm on South 6th street, where his occupation has been dairying and general farming.

Mr. Fredstrom died of pneumonia after an illness of two weeks. The remains may be viewed at the D. J. Whitney undertaking rooms on Thursday and at the home on Friday. The time for the funeral has not yet been definitely fixed but will be announced in tomorrow's Dispatch.

The deceased leaves to mourn his passing his widow and eight children: Arthur, Albin, Raymond, Lila, Ethel, Walter, Ida and Floyd.

Mr. and Mrs. Fredstrom and family were well and favorably known in this city and the sympathy of their numerous friends and acquaintances goes out to those who are called upon to share this sorrow.

WORN NERVES

Nervous troubles, with backache, dizzy spells, queer pains and irregular kidneys, give reasons to suspect kidney weakness and to try the remedy that has helped your neighbors.

Mrs. A. Haas, 1615 S. Norwood St., Brainerd, says: "I was in very bad shape last summer with my kidneys. My back pained so badly I could hardly stand on my feet to wash a dish, and when I did, my back would feel as if it were breaking. I had dizzy spells and a creepy feeling all over me. I was as nervous as could be and would go a long time without my kidneys having acted. I tried Doan's Kidney Pills and they quickly benefited me. I was soon rid of my kidney trouble."

FIRE IN BASEMENT PAROCHIAL SCHOOL

$500 Damage Done Tuesday Night When Over-Heated Furnace Sets Fire to Ceiling

DEPARTMENT QUICK RESPONSE

Fire Extinguished—School Able to Resume Today as Heating Plant Not Damaged

The fire department responded to a call from the St. Francis parochial school, 803 Juniper street between 7:30 and 8 o'clock, Tuesday evening.

The alarm was put in by young people who were there for recreation and their prompt discovery of the fire and quick response by the department doubtless saved the building.

The department discovered a small fire just over the boiler which was extinguished by the use of chemicals.

The only damage resulting from the small fire was a small hole above of the school rooms torn up. The boiler and part of the floor in one damage was covered by insurance and is believed to be less than $500.

FITS AND MISFITS

The tailor who has made your clothes for years can see at a glance whether your suit fits you. I have made Life Insurance a study for years and believe me I have seen some awful misfits that have been written.

The Mutual Life of New York tries to put men in the field who understand and are capable of advising its clients as to their needs. The company writes many kinds of policies so that all classes of risks may be covered in best possible manner.

Some agents sell you fancy trimmings where you should buy wool; some put on the heavy clothing where the trimmings should be worn. In other words our needs in insurance are not all alike except as to protection. Clauses, options etc., that may apply to you I would not need.

To have satisfied clients—the insurance agent must know his business in order to fit your case, then he must know his company and be able to SHOW YOU, not simply TELL YOU the reason why you should have a certain policy form.

Our experience and knowledge in this line can be yours without cost to you.

Our Company has over a million dollars insurance in this community. See if you can find a misfit among them. If you find that we have served your neighbor and friend in selling them what they need—why not give us a chance to sell you.

Making It Easy for Grandma.

Bobbie was invited to visit his grandmother for two weeks, and his mother had equipped him with plenty of pretty clothes. After trying them all on, he remarked: "You better let me wear them to play in, so I can get acquainted with myself, and then grandma will know me."

Sticking.

Little Harry, not having taken his customary afternoon nap, and feeling sleepy along toward night, said to his father: "Papa, you will have to make me a new eye, this one keeps sticking."

MRS. ELLA BEAULIEU CALLED TO REWARD

Was Widow of Gustave H. Beaulieu Who Died Near Barrows About Four Years Ago

LEAVES A SON NAMED EDWIN

The Beaulieus had Large Land Holdings Near Barrows and Crow Wing and a Newspaper Property

Mrs. Ella Beaulieu, age 63, widow of Gustave H. Beaulieu, passed away in Brainerd and the funeral was held Tuesday morning from the D. E. Whitney chapel, with Rev. Hans J. Wolner, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church officiating. Interment was in Evergreen cemetery.

She is survived by a son, Edwin. Mr. Beaulieu passed away near Barrows about four years ago. The Beaulieus were prominently identified with the early history of Central Minnesota and had large land holdings near Barrows and Crow Wing. When her husband died, Mrs. Beaulieu became identified with a newspaper property in northern Minnesota and conducted that for some time.

She was a woman of rare mental attainments and a conversationalist and writer of extreme grace and beauty. She was born in Dundee, New York on July 6, 1847. Her parents were Mr. and Mrs. DeMorgan Holmes and the maiden name of her mother was Julia Stead.

There were many friends present at the services which were conducted in simple and impressive manner. Among the relatives present were Mrs. DeMorgan Holmes, mother; Edwin Beaulieu, son; Mrs. Chas. Fackett of Sundance, Wyoming, sister; Mr. Martin Holmes, of Houghton, Saskatchewan, Canada, brother.

Rev. Dr. J. E. Norcross Opens Series of Meetings at First Baptist Church

The meetings under the leadership of Rev. Dr. J. E. Norcross of New York City began Monday evening at First Baptist church under very favorable conditions. A goodly number were in attendance to hear the first message which came out of a reservoir of Bible knowledge and illustration material stored up in the man.

Dr. Norcross is a very versatile speaker and very illuminative. He holds the attention and interest of his hearers by the way he presents his theme and quotes scripture passages and reads his scripture lessons from memory.

The text of his initial sermon was: "To Whom Much Hath Been Given, Much Shall be Required." He spoke of the fact that there never were

Directors Meeting Held at Barrows Orders Purchase of $2,000 More Equipment

40 KW. DYNAMO IN THE LIST

Company Refuses Proffers to Move Plant to Other Towns and Will Expand Gradually

Barrows, Minn., February 1—M. N. Koll, of Cass Lake, Minn., was at Barrows yesterday afternoon attending a meeting of the board of directors of the Chambers Manufacturing Company of which he is a member.

This company is almost ready to go on a producing basis. Nearly $2,000 worth of machinery was ordered by the directors yesterday in addition to more than that much already at the plant. Installation is going on as rapidly as desirable.

One of the machines ordered is a 40 k. w. dynamo to which will furnish electric power for the use of the company's motors and lights. Sufficient electricity will be provided in order that lighting may be furnished to others.

Great inducements have been offered the company recently to move the plant. Capital in very large volume has been passed up by the directors as they feel that the best interests of the company will be best conserved by gradual expansion, rather than by large capital which would seek to control.

Beliefs Connected With Arch.

The arch, one of the most beautiful of architectural achievements, was often associated with superstition. In India, in China, in New Zealand, to crawl under a brier grown down in the shape of an arch is considered a sure cure for rheumatism, boils, whooping cough, or whatever ails you. A sick child is passed under such an arch, in Borneo, and in New Guinea, passing under an arch is an initiation process observed with much ceremony.

Now, What Do You Think HE SAID?

The letters are pouring in now and everyone seems to be interested in that three minute telephone conversation. Here is what a great many ladies say in their letters:

"Priced have dropped 50%"

For those who do not quite understand the game, let us state that an article that cost $50, and the price during the war increased to $75, that article increased 50%; but if that article dropped back to $50 it would decrease only 33 and one-third per cent.

Now, in the manufacture of furniture, everyone knows that labor is nearly 75 per cent of the cost; and while labor and material have taken a bad drop, let us all hope it won't be 50 per cent, as that would mean that our wages will all be less than they were before the war. Sure! We know that there are lots of people out of work and things are a little quiet, but don't write us a gloom letter, just remember there is more work ahead of us than we can possibly do, and you and I have got to do it. The longer we rest, the more work there is. So let's get ready to do our share and if we all get together we can kick old Mister 50 per cent clean off the map.

Have you guessed how many pieces there will be in the first car?

URGE NATIONAL LABOR COUNCIL

United Shoe Workers of America
Take Lead in New Industrial Movement.

WOULD BE FORMIDABLE BODY

Idea Is First to Bring Together Labor Organizations Unaffiliated With the American Federation, Then the Federation Itself.

A national council of all industrial workers in the United States is the expressed aim of a plan set in motion by the executive board of the United Shoe Workers of America at its semi-annual meeting at Rochester, N. Y. Federation of labor bodies independent of the American Federation of Labor first is to be attempted and the federation then is to be asked to join, according to Thomas F. Lynch of Boston, national secretary-treasurer of the shoe workers.

GENERAL LABOR NEWS

The Reading Iron company, Catasauqua, Pa., announced a wage cut of 20 per cent.

The number of unemployed was reduced at Toledo, O., in one week from about 27,000 to 15,000, through many young men from the farms having gone back.

The number of unemployed persons in Germany increased 15,000 during the first two weeks of December. Records show 365,000 were unable to obtain employment.

At New Bedford, Mass., the Wamsutta mills, among the largest in the city, have resumed operations on a five-day schedule every other week. The mills have been completely shut down.

Representatives of the United Shoe Workers of America, which controls about 6,000 of the 7,000 workers in the shoe industry in that city, say business has been resumed in every shoe factory in Rochester.

An interesting industrial experiment has been set on foot in England. A factory staffed and operated exclusively by women is about to be opened. It is hoped to develop the business on a co-partnership strictly business basis.

The Tilt silk mill, Pottsville, Pa., one of the largest in the country, resumed work after several weeks' idleness. A proposition has been made for a reduction of wages to meet market exigencies, but no final action has been taken.

The Kalamazoo (Mich.) Brick and Stone Masons' union has voluntarily lowered the wage scale of its members from $1.35 an hour to $1.25. The action was taken as a move to stimulate building and thereby give employment for idle workers.

More than 700,000 unemployed are registered with the British government, but according to an authentic estimate the number actually exceeds 1,000,000. The great army of unemployed has been increased by 100,000 in the last fortnight.

Reopening of the Highland Park cotton mills at Huntersville, N. C., and Rockhill, S. C., gave jobs to approximately 5,000 workers. The mills closed last fall, but were reopened in December, running until the holidays, when they again were shut down.

The 4,000 employees of the Public Service Railway company, Newark, N. J., agreed to work ten hours a day at the same wages they now receive for a nine-hour day. This action is "their contribution to an effort to get the company out of financial difficulties." The agreement will stand for six months.

Wages of sheet mill union workers will be reduced approximately 9 1/2 per cent during the next two months as a result of the bimonthly settlement between the National Association of Sheet and Tin Plate Manufacturers and the Amalgamated Association. The wages of tin mill workers will remain unchanged.

Shop employees of the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie railroad have been placed on a five-day week. About 1,400 men are affected. W. H. Bremner, president of the Minneapolis & St. Louis railroad, said 1,250 employees have been laid off by that company over the entire system since September 1.

Elimination of strikes and labor disputes in the building industry of Canada through the use of standardized wage agreements and contracts is contemplated in a plan to be considered by the Association of Canadian Building and Construction Industries at its annual session in Winnipeg. Under the plan wages would be standardized by sections throughout the Dominion and a standard contract form would be used by all contractors and subcontractors.

Agreeing to accept a wage reduction of 20 per cent and an increased labor day of one hour, 150 employees of the Alshuler Manufacturing company, Racine, Wis., notified the management they would not permit an open shop, and as a result a strike was declared.

Distribution of bonuses totaling in excess of $1,000,000 to employees of the Dodge Brothers Motor Car company was made recently. The bonus is in the form of Liberty bonds, amounting from 10 to 15 per cent of a year's salary and is similar to one paid a year ago.

times like these in the world history that much more is required of people living in this day and age because much more has been given in the providence of God. The wonderful land in which we live; the wonderful people and leaders of the day, the splendid and innumerable opportunities are so advantageous to progress and success that more is expected of the present civilization than in the centuries past. It was a fine presentation of a carefully thought out theme and was listened to with great interest.

The evangelistic meetings are growing in attendance and interest. Dr. Norcross preached a most powerful sermon Tuesday evening on "Bible Values" and the jewels it contains. A most illuminating discourse worthy of the hearing of every member of the church and congregation was given. The two special topics for Wednesday and Thursday will be "Naming the Stars" and "Some Do's and Don'ts for Church Folks." There will be special music at these services.

Dr. Norcross can only be here through Sunday night. The pastor urges every member of the church and congregation to be present from now to the close of the meetings.

HER DESK

By MABEL W. SANFORD.

(Copyright.)

"Yes," said Brent, answering the deferentially questioning look in the eyes of the clerk, "I like these rooms very much. Did you say they are the only vacant apartment in the house?"

"Yes," returned the polite clerk promptly; "and we shouldn't have these to offer only that the young lady who had them was ill, and obliged to go home."

"I will take the rooms," he said. "But tell me: do all these pictures and this desk go with them, or do they belong to the young lady?"

"Well, it's this way," said the clerk; "they are to stay here if you wish them, not unless. You see, the young lady, Miss Castleton, is an artist—you have heard of her—and these pictures are mostly her own work. She used this room as a studio. And the desk is hers, too."

Stanley Brent was a young man of enough wealth to enable him to indulge his fancies; but he had concentrated all his energies and ambitions upon a novel, which had finally been accepted by a New York publishing firm on condition that he would make certain changes in the plot.

He found his new apartment all that could be desired in the way of stimulus. He whimsically attributed his success to the Chippendale desk, at which he did most of his work.

Hanging directly over the Chippendale desk, there was one picture which roused Brent's admiration and imagination more than all the rest. It was a study of a young man, with features faultlessly Greek, who looked the epitome of youth and poetry and love. It set Brent to weaving a romance at a faster pace than his own pen could follow.

"Yes, that's the man she loves, or did love when she painted it," he said to himself as he lighted his brier, and gave himself up to the joys of speculation.

And Brent put down his brier, and started on a prolonged search for a note from Miss Kingston, who had invited him to dine with her and her chum.

"Here it is," he said at last, spying a blue-gray sheet of note-paper in the far corner of a pigeonhole.

He pulled it out and began to read. A puzzled expression came over his face. He could not remember having received this strange letter:

"It is such a joy to love you that I feel as if I must tell you so. I fancy most women don't tell a man that they love him. They allow him to do all that. Well, my heart, I am different, that is all. I sit here looking at your wonderful face tonight, and it seems to me that you were born for love, just as a Greek statue was born for immortality. I cannot help adding my tribute of adoration, even while I feel that it will not touch you very deeply. Why should it? You must have waited before this of the countless oblations offered on your altar. Nevertheless, because I love with a love which is as fresh and pure as it is lasting, I dare to tell you so, and sign myself

"Yours devotedly,

"ALICE CASTLETON."

This, then, was the way some women loved, Brent reflected, as he carefully replaced the tell-tale letter. He wished he had ever known that sort of girl. He made up his mind then and there to meet Alice Castleton, no matter what the pretext, as soon as he finished his novel.

He did not have to wait long, however. As he entered the house late in the afternoon of the next day, he was met by the clerk with a smile and the information that Miss Castleton was in his rooms.

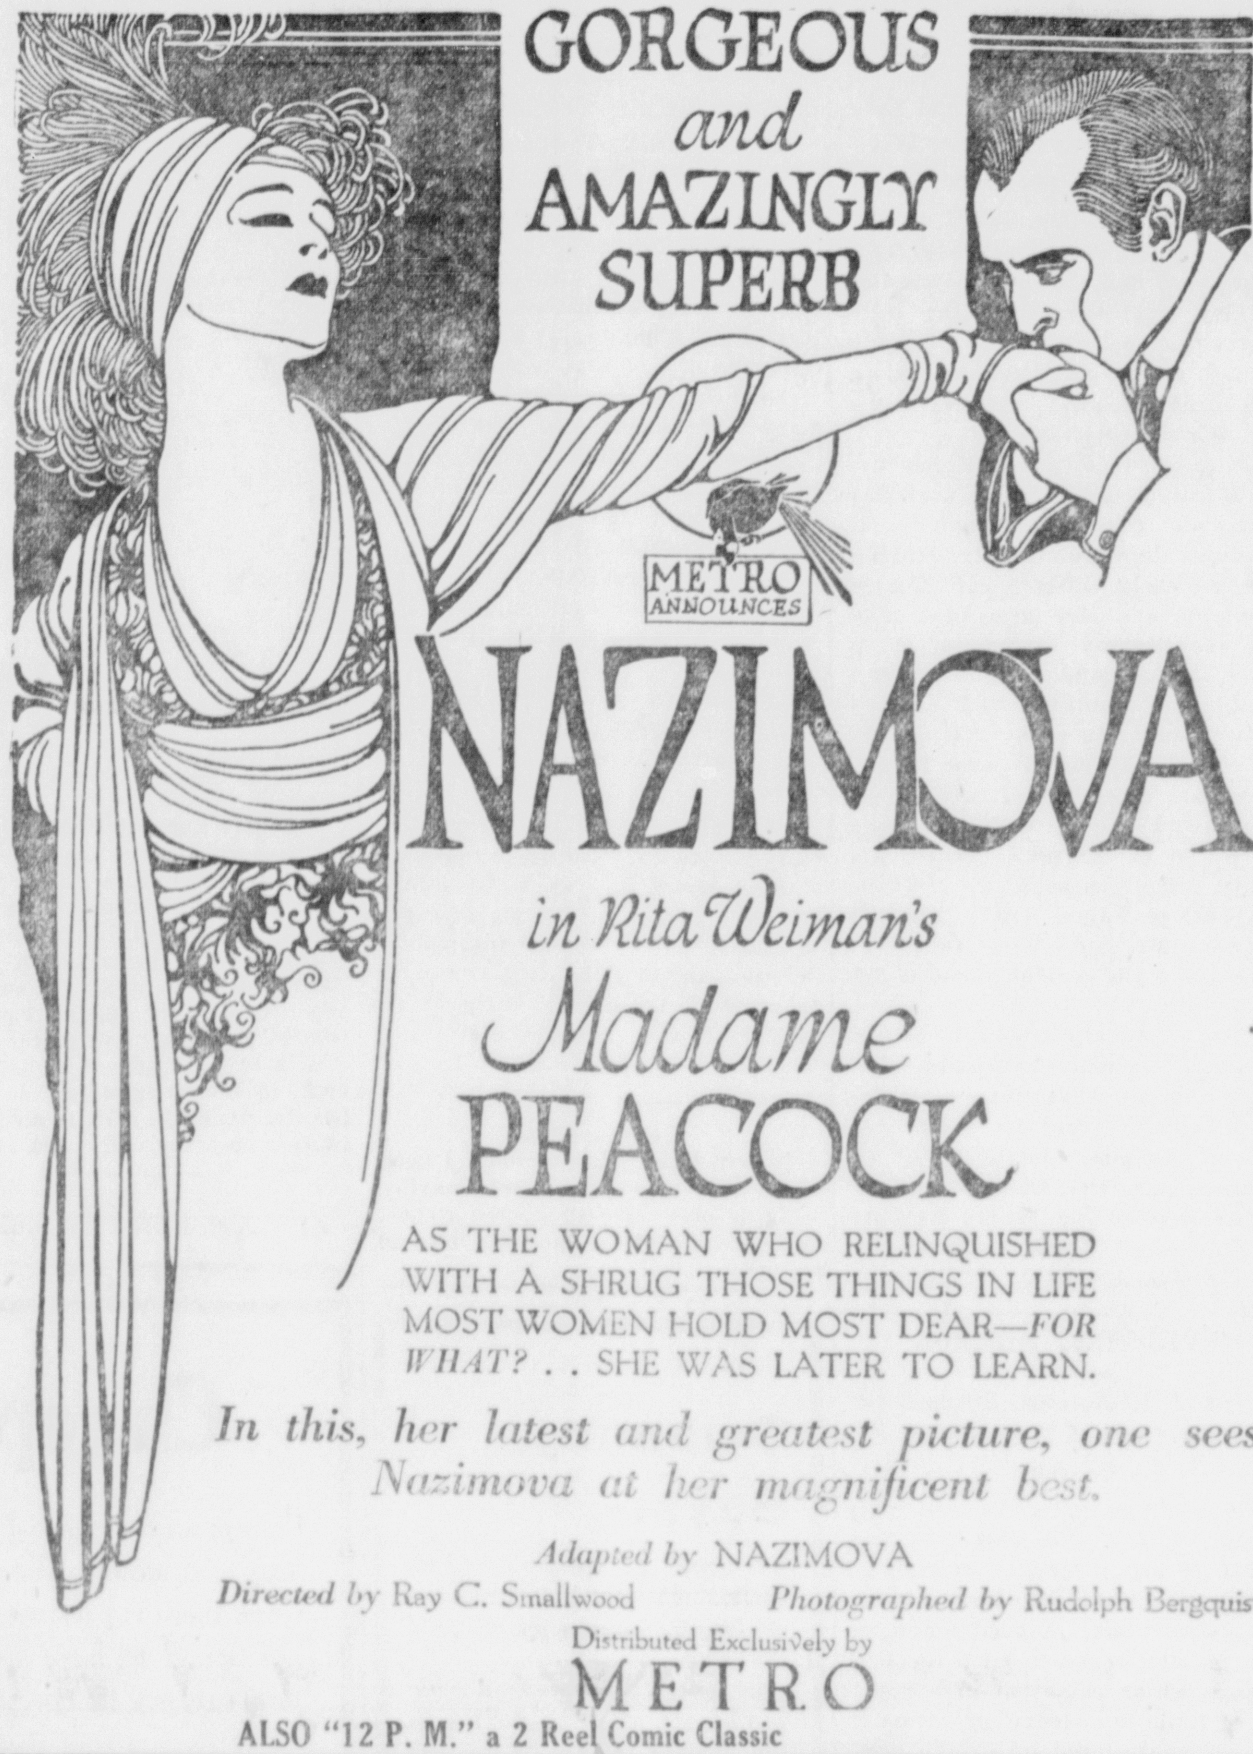

Entering, he saw a plump, merry-faced girl in the act of jumping from a high chair with the fatal picture in her hands.

"How do you do?" she laughed.

"Penelope's Web."

"Penelope's web," meaning a work that never progresses, comes from Greek mythology. Penelope, the wife of Ulysses, being importuned by several suitors during her husband's long absence, made reply that she could not marry again, even if Ulysses were dead, till she had finished weaving a shroud for her aged father-in-law. Every night she pulled out what she had woven during the day, and thus made no progress toward the completion of the shroud. The French say of a work "never ending, still beginning," c'est l'ouvrage de Penelope.

His Appetite With Him.

A story is told of a jockey who after the race for which he had been long starving himself went to a hotel and ate a leg of mutton. When the waiter asked if he would like some sweets or cheese, he replied: "No. I never eat sweets. But if you have another leg of mutton I think I could manage it."

Advertisers in the Daily Dispatch

Now get the same cut service as the big city dailies.

We have made arrangements with the Murray Illustrated Advertising Company of New York, for the furnishing of cuts for advertising purposes absolutely free to our patrons. This service is the best in America and has as clients some of the largest newspapers published.

Never before has it been possible for a paper to furnish this service without a considerable added outlay on the part of the advertiser, and even now it is only offered to the paper recognized by advertisers and readers as the leader in its section.

The Dispatch buys the cuts; the advertiser pays for the space in the paper at the same rate as for other advertising. Many of our patrons have already taken advantage of this offer and others are invited to do so.

We will be glad to explain the matter more fully suppose you are Mr. Brent. Well, I am Alice Castleton. I hope you won't mind my taking Narcissus.

"The loquacious gentleman at the desk tells me you are a literary man," she continued, still in a serio-comic way. "Why don't you put us into a story, Narcissus and myself? I've even written him love letters in odd moments when I'd nothing better to do."

Finally he summoned up sufficient courage to tell her about the note he had discovered, and his romantic deduction. Miss Castleton could not restrain her mirth.

"And now," she said, "which do you prefer, Mr. Brent—the blighted violet of your fancy or the prosaic reality?"

Brent was silent for a moment.

"Might one be permitted to be glad that a Narcissus seems to be his only rival?" he said finally.

"But you forget," laughed Miss Castleton, "that Narcissus spells art, and that art is long."

"May I not see you again?" he pleaded.

"Certainly," returned Miss Castleton. "I was just about to ask you to come to tea next Sunday at my new studio. Here is my card. I am sending for the desk tomorrow. Good-by, Mr. Brent. Until I see you again, remember I am consoling myself with Narcissus!"

Brent looked at the bit of pasteboard she had left in his hand, kissed it with reverence, and placed it in a conspicuous position on her Chippendale desk.

"And there are four beastly days," he sighed aloud, "until Sunday!"
